Ouiatenon—
a brief history

In 1717 the governor of New France ordered an officer, 4 soldiers, a blacksmith and three others to construct a post near the Ouia village on the Wabash River. The French post expanded and by 1761 consisted of a stockade fence surrounding a double-row of 14 houses. There was a chapel and a blacksmith shop, but the post usually housed less than 20 soldiers and only a dozen or so traders. Some voyageurs, who paddled the big canoes that brought supplies, might winter over before transporting the furs north to Montreal. Ouiatenon was a small but highly profitable outpost of the 18th century French empire in North America.

Later, when the British won control of the area, they sent only a few soldiers to Ouiatenon, and these troops were ousted just two years later during Pontiac's Rebellion. The French traders, many married to Ouia women, remained.

George Rogers Clark launched the American era when his troops took control of the area, and still the French traders remained.

Finally, in the late 1780s, amid the growing conflict for land between new settlers and the Native Americans, the French gradually left. In 1791 the American Army burned the Ouia village and the remains of the post. Ouiatenon seemed "lost in time" until the rediscovery of the original site in the 1960s and the resurrection of its history through the Feast of the Hunters' Moon.

Tippecanoe County Historical Association's

Welcome mon ami to the 58th Annual Feast of the Hunters' Moon!

Join us as we step back into history at this year's Feast of the Hunters' Moon. The Feast is an authentic portrayal of an event that likely took place in the 1700s at Ouiatenon. Almost three hundred years ago, when the French outpost of Fort Ouiatenon was located in the center of a vast hunting, fishing and trapping region of New France, the voyageurs returned from Canada each fall with a new supply of merchandise for trading. The arrival of their canoes was welcomed by the soldiers garrisoned at the fort and by the Native Americans, who brought furs and game to barter. It was the time of the Hunters' Moon—when hunting was good, the harvest was in and the voyageurs had returned from the North.

What better time for a feast?

The Feast began in the 1950s as an activity of the membership of the Tippecanoe County Historical Association. It used a theme of Native American history of the area and a meal of common food was eaten in the blockhouse around the fire. In 1968 the Feast was opened to the public. In 1969 it became a two-day event and the activities expanded to include craft demonstrations, singing, dancing and trading.

Participants in the Feast are here from across the continent to join in this classic re-enactment of a gathering of French and Native Americans. Sights, sounds and smells of a day gone by greet you as you visit the Feast of the Hunters' Moon. The sound of a ringing anvil assails the ears, and in the background you can hear the rhythmic splash of canoe paddles as a brigade of voyageurs moves down the Wabash. The crack of muzzle loaders lends an authentic sound, as do the intermingling strains of dulcimers and fiddles blending with the tootling of fifes and the beat of drums.

Costumed craftspeople demonstrate the traditional arts of basket making, blacksmithing, spinning, weaving and soap making. These craftspeople use natural materials to hand-make contemporary products. Traders spread their blankets and offer authentic reproductions of 18th century trade items. Merchants offer for sale reproductions of apparel and accoutrements of the time period.

When hunger strikes, and it does so often in the crisp fall days of the Hunters' Moon, you can feast on buffalo burgers, fry bread, pork chops, buffalo stew, cider and other taste tempting 18th century dishes.

Traditional Craftspeople

...are those who make products in the style of the 18th century, using only materials and methods available at that time. Their license to demonstrate and sell at the Feast will designate them as "Craftspeople." There are also crafts that are demonstrated from time to time in the various camps—Voyageur Camp, Artillery Arena, Military Camps, and at the individual campsites.

Sutlers

...are licensed to sell 18th century trade goods, Native American-made crafts, items hand-crafted from natural materials, or dried herbal arrangements.

Food booth participation and pricing may be impacted due to the instability of the supply chain and fluctuating prices, we appreciate your understanding.

In the event of an emergency, visitors and participants may be asked to leave the grounds or seek shelter for their own safety. Three long blasts of an air horn and/or verbal direction by uniformed officers or over the PA systems would be utilized to convey this message. Should any type of evacuation take place, there will be no pass-outs provided. No one will be challenged for proof of prior attendance upon reentry. If an evacuation is recommended and anyone chooses to stay, they do so at their own risk. There is only limited shelter within the park, so most should seek shelter in vehicles.
